David Gunning Returns Home to Find Mother Seated at Table Cold in Death

APOPLEXY THE CAUSE

Pioneer Lady of That Community will be Missed—Husband Died Suddenly

When David Gunning returned to his home west of Manilla yesterday at noon, after a trip to that town, he was horrified to find his aged mother, Mrs. Mary J. Gunning, cold in death and seated in an upright position at a table.

Mrs. Gunning had been in her usual good health, and when the son left home Thursday morning she was attending to her accustomed duties. The coroner says that death was due to apoplexy.

Deceased was the widow of John Gunning, who also died suddenly several years ago. Mrs. Gunning was the mother of thirteen children, eight boys and five girls, nine of whom survive. They are David, of Union township; Shelby county; James, of Union, Elsworth, of Morrison; Mrs. Carmony, of Hanover township; Mrs. Favors, of St. Paul; Lysander, of Morristown, and Mrs. Bert Wicker, of Union township.

She as eighty years of age. During her life she retained remarkable health and was regarded one of Union township's best mothers and most adoring wives.

Funeral services will be held at the Little Blue River church, Sunday.

UNION TOWNSHIP WOMAN SUCCUMBS

Mrs. Jesse Kirkpatrick Died After Only a Few Days Illness

Mrs. Jesse Kirkpatrick died at her home near Gings Thursday evening about 6 o'clock, of pneumonia and jaundice, after a brief illness of only a few days, having taken ill last Saturday.

Mrs. Kirkpatrick was sixty-five years of age and was born in Union township, near the farm where she died.

Deceased was well known throughout the community in which she lived because of her kindness and genial disposition. She was a faithful Christian for many years and a member of the Main Street Christian church. Mr. and Mrs. Kirkpatrick moved from this city to Union township about a year ago. Mrs. Kirkpatrick is survived by a husband, three children, Dr. A. M. Kirkpatrick, of Columbus, Ind.; Mrs. W. A. Smith and Mrs. E. A. Billings, both of Union township, and a sister, Mrs. Emma Gings, of this city.

The funeral services will be held Saturday at the late residence at 1 o'clock, conducted by Rev. R. W. Abberley, pastor of the Main Street Christian church. Burial will occur at East Hill cemetery.

RIVERSIDE PARK IS IN PINK OF CONDITION

The mile track at Riverside Park is now in fine condition, and the trainers enjoy it very much as they are glad to get off the rough streets. Horsemen claim they never saw it better and if the horses were only ready they could step some very fast miles. This is the first mile track in the north where trainers are at work.

CHRISTIANS ON FIVE YARD LINE

A Most Novel and Original Idea for Increasing Sunday School Attendance

FOOT BALL RULES PREVAIL

Imaginary Gridiron Mapped Out on Large Canvas Where Score will be Noted

The Main Street Christian church Bible school is entering upon one of the most unique and intensely interesting contests ever waged in this city for new pupils, and something different from anything in the United States.

The school has been graded and every department comes under a new system and organization. The contest which is to be conducted is organized on the plan of a foot ball contest, using only those points in the game that require quick mental action, lots of perseverance and a strict adherence to definite rules and plans.

An immense foot ball field on canvas will be suspended on the walls and on this field will be represented all the classes in the Sunday school numbering eighteen. There is a division of the classes according to number and strength, and each class occupy a position opposite its opponent on the 55 yard line, the center of the field, and each class will be represented by a football at the 55 yard line.

On next Sunday each class will make a start for its opponent's goal line, and the distance and position of the ball on the field will be determined by the increase of attendance and collection on each succeeding Sunday and continuing for eleven weeks.

Any class that makes a "touch down" or reaches "goal" must make an average of 110 per cent in attendance and collection, and is given five points. There are "fouls" and penalties attached for tardiness and absence and those classes penalized will have their ball carried back. The coach, referees and judges with assistants will have the game in charge.

LOCAL MAN HONORED

FRANK J. HALL, DEMOCRAT NOMINEE FOR LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR

All Rushville was proud last night when the welcome news came over the wires announcing the fact that one of her sons had been signally honored by the party he was affiliated with, for after a warm contest in one of the most interesting Democratic State conventions held for years, and after four ballots, Frank J. Hall, of this city was declared the nominee for lieutenant governor.

Mr. Hall has practiced law in this county for many years, has a wide acquaintance and is extremely popular with all classes, irrespective of politics. He is the type of man that would get up in the middle of the night to do his fellowman a favor, and it is the intention of this publication, one of the opposite faith in matters politic, to refrain from any personal attacks on Mr. Hall during the coming campaign. While the matter of soliciting votes for a man who stands with the Democratic party and for Democratic principals is yet another thing, still we do not believe that it would be in good grace, aside from the sentiment we have in the matter, to say one iota against the man, for he is a Rush county man, and we feel as proud of his achievement as any of our Democratic friends.

In being named for such an important place on the State ticket Mr. Hall has brought fame to the county that gave him birth. A thrill of genuine pleasure comes over us when we hear of fresh laurels being placed upon the brow of one of our fellow townsmen.

THE AFTERMATH

No State convention would be complete without endorsing Kern for something.

Rush county Democrats were much in evidence at the State capitol this week.

It is beginning to appear that Rush county is going to prove as fertile in producing State candidates as it is in the matter of raising corn, a product in which we lead the State.

"Horns, horns everywhere,—but no one to blow them," laments poor Conn as he goes back to his "musical factory" at Elkhart.

The liberal element took in the "Slack."

Everybody is proud of Frank J. Hall in this neck of the woods. He received a recognition from his party which he should have had years ago.

T. Taggart simply out-Marshaled all the forces as usual.

'Spote Kuhn will be satisfied to run for Congress again. Another year in politics for the minister and his folks will find him singing with the bard: "Home keeping hearts are the happier ones."

Watson's stock didn't drop any, brother, when the Democrats nominated a speaking campaigning candidate for Governor.

FINDS THE WORK HAS GROWN IN SIX YEARS

Former County Superintendent is Substituting while Prof. Headlee is Ill

A. L. Gary, former county superintendent of schools, has charge of the county superintendent's office during the illness of Supt. W. O. Headlee.

Mr. Gary says the office has grown so since he left it six years ago, that he finds it almost like going into a new business.

Mr. Gary has no difficulty in properly discharging the duties of the office.

He is being ably assisted by John Geraghty, formerly a school superintendent in the Philippine Islands.

SAILOR LAD WAS MUCH GRIEVED

Because He Could Not See His Mother Alive Once More

HE RETURNED TODAY

To Battle Ship New Hampshire to Reach it Before They Set Sail Monday

Clarence Wilson, of Shelbyville, who came home from the navy to attend the funeral services of his mother, Mrs. Ida Wilson, a few days ago, visited relatives in this city yesterday.

The young man had just been transferred from Newport to Philadelphia, when he received the sad news of his mother's death and he could not get a furlough because the papers containing his record were not at Philadelphia and the captain of the ship let him come on his own responsibility without orders from the commanding officer.

The boy is only eighteen years of age; he was almost heartbroken because he would have received a furlough in about three weeks to come home visit his mother, had she lived until that time.

The young man returned today to Philadelphia in order to report for duty before his vessel, the battleship New Hampshire, sets sail for New York harbor on next Monday.

The young sailor is the grandson of Mrs. William Wilson, widow of the pioneer undertaker of this city.

LOCAL POLO TEAM MET WITH DEFEAT

Demmer's Bonds Played Their First Game at Connersville Last Night

Demmer's Bond Polo team suffered defeat in their first game with Connersville last night in that city in a score of 6 to 2, which was witnessed by a large crowd.

The local team played an excellent game and victory would have been theirs no doubt had the full team played, but unfortunately they had to substitute one of Connersville's boys for Moore, and it is said that he lost the game for them.

The local line-up was composed of links Gehring, captain, Max Wallace, James Hogsett and James Wooster. In view of the fact that this is the first game of the local team, they played with credit to themselves. A return game will be played in the near future.

WOUND KILLS MANILLA MAN

Charles W. Taylor, who Shot Himself Nine Days Ago, Succumbed today

SUFFERED INTENSE PAIN

Gloom Cast Over Entire Community by Untimely Death of Well Known Merchant

Charles M. Taylor, the Manilla merchant who shot himself nine days ago in his home with suicidal intent, expired this morning at five o'clock, after struggling for over a week in an uneven battle with death. His last night was spent in acute suffering. While his death has been hourly expected since he committed the rash act, it has cast a gloom over the community here as he has been in business for many years, conducting a general store.

No definite cause has ever been assigned for his wish to end his life, although it has been said that it was due to despondency over the loss of business in the past few months. He was highly respected in Manilla, and by all who knew him. He was prominent in Democratic politics of Walker township and served one term as trustee of that township.

The arrangements for the funeral is to hold a short service at seven o'clock this (Friday) evening, after which the remains will be taken to Henryville Saturday morning for burial in Mount Zion cemetery, where his father is buried.

Deceased was 56 years of age and leaves a wife, four sons and four daughters—Mrs. Bernie Hester, Mrs. Pearl Barnard and Misses Gertie and Ruth. The sons are Walter, Virgil, Orville and Glen.

She was named after Miss Bessie Vance, now Mrs. Hershel Hawk, of Cincinnati.

Here's Where the Fun Comes In

Edson F. Folsom, the man behind the gab, intended going to Indianapolis yesterday to get a new motor car he purchased and drive it home late in the afternoon. While waiting at the local traction office for a car he engaged in conversation with a fellow and was "talking it over" so earnestly that the car came in and pulled out with Folsom still talking. Today he left for Indianapolis and will drive his car to Rushville this evening and will "run it over" the county seeing people he can "talk it over" with by phone.

Whose Say-so Is Best?

With nearly all medicines put up for sale through druggists, one has to take the maker's say-so alone and exclusively as to their curative value. Of course, such testimony is not that of a disinterested party and accordingly is not to be given the same credit as if written from disinterested motives.

Dr. Pierce's medicines, however, form a single and therefore striking exception to the above rule. Their claim to the confidence of invalids does not rest solely upon their owners' and makers' say-so or praise. Their ingredients are matters of public knowledge, being printed on each separate bottle-wrapper. Thus invalid sufferers are taken into Dr. Pierce's full confidence. Scores of leading medical men have written enough to fill volumes in praise of the curative value of the several ingredients entering into these well-known medicines.

In favor of Dr. Pierce's medicines is the frank, confiding, open, honest statement of their full composition, giving every ingredient in plain English, without fear of successful criticism and with confidence that the good sense of the afflicted will lead them to appreciate this honorable manner of confiding to them what they are taking into their stomachs when making use of these medicines.

WHAT THEY CURE. People often ask "What do Dr. Pierce's two leading medicines—"Golden Medical Discovery" and "Favorite Prescription" cure?"

Briefly, the answer is that "Golden Medical Discovery" is a most potent alternative, or blood-purifier, and tonic, or invigorator, and acts especially favorably in a curative way upon all the mucous lining surfaces, as of the nasal passages, throat, bronchial tubes, stomach, bowels and bladder curing a large percentage of catarrhal cases whether the disease affects the nasal passages, the throat, larynx, bronchia, stomach (as catarrhal dyspepsia), bowels (as mucous diarrhea), bladder, uterus or other pelvic organs. Even in the chronic or ulcerative stages of these affections, it is generally successful in affecting cures. In fact the "Golden Medical Discovery" is without doubt, the most successful constitutional remedy for all forms of catarrhal diseases known to modern medical science. In Chronic Nasal Catarrh Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy fluid should be used for washing and cleansing out the nasal passages while taking the "Discovery" for its blood cleansing and specific, healing effects upon the mucous lining membranes. This combined local and general treatment will cure a very large percentage of the worst cases of chronic nasal catarrh, no matter of how many years' standing they may be.

As to the "Favorite Prescription," it is advised for the cure of one class of diseases only—those weaknesses, deformities and irregularities peculiar to women. It is a powerful, yet gently acting, invigorating tonic and nerve.

Both these world-famed medicines are wholly made up from the glyceric extracts of native, medicinal roots, found in our American forests. The processes employed in their manufacture were original with Dr. Pierce, and they are carried on by skilled chemists and pharmacists with the aid of apparatus and appliances specially designed and built for this purpose. Both medicines are entirely free from alcohol and all other harmful, habit-forming drugs. What is said of their power to cure the several diseases for which they are advised may be easily learned by sending your name and address to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for a little booklet which he has compiled, containing copious extracts from numerous standard medical books, which are consulted as authorities by physicians of the several schools of practice for their guidance in prescribing. It is FREE TO ALL. A postal card requests will bring it.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. Constipation is the cause of many diseases. Cure the cause and you cure the disease. One "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. Druggists sell them, and nothing is "just as good." They are the original Little Liver Pills first put up by old Dr. Pierce, over 40 years ago. Much imitated, but never equaled. They are tiny sugar-coated granules easy to take as candy.

Farmers Lose $13,000,000

A Report by the Department of Agriculture and by Several Universities Will be of Interest to the Farmers of Rush county

The Department of Agriculture, Weather Bureau and Insurance Companies have been gathering figures in regard to the lightning losses in the United States for several years and after a very careful study of the situation have issued the statement that the losses caused by lightning have increased five per cent each year for ten years, and last year increased over ten per cent over the year before.

The losses to the American farmer last year were about $13,000,000, and the loss to human life was 833 persons killed lightning, to say nothing about the losses that were not reported to any of these offices. Naturally a condition of this kind in this great country of ours could not long exist without some of our great men looking for a remedy for it, and after experimenting with various methods of prevention for several years the scientific men of the United States as well as the Schools, Colleges and Universities have agreed that a system of protection can be built that will afford absolute safety and give the following general rules for protecting the average house or barn.

First: Have a charcoal grounding consisting of a perforated copper reservoir, filled with charcoal and buried from ten to twelve feet in the earth to which a conductor of pure copper should be attached.

Second: The conductor should have not less than seven inches of conducting surface and nothing but surface counts, as the electricity travels only on the surface and does not travel through the metal, therefore a braided cable is better, and must be fastened to the building with copper clamps that hold it tight to the building, and the conductor should not be insulated from the building under any circumstances.

Third: There should be no quick short bends or cast connections in the conductor, the conductor should extend up and become a part of the point and the point should consist of a cluster of very sharp points, nickel plated to prevent them corroding as that will binder the discharge of the electricity from them. In making point elevations do not loose cast connections, but use the cable, splicing it in such a manner as to avoid all quick bends and the work should be done by a man schooled in the erection of the system and one that understands his business. A system erected according to this plan will afford absolute protection.

H. L. FOLEY, PROF. OF ELECTRICITY AT INDIANA UNIVERSITY.

There is no question but that a system of protection properly erected is absolute protection. The chance of lightning taking place about a house equipped with a proper system is reduced 75 per cent.

There are two important points that must be observed in the erection of a system: First: the conductor should run above the house and terminate with several very sharp points, as a dull point is dangerous. Second: The conductor should run several feet into the ground and be terminated in a metal plate surrounded by charcoal; The charcoal is to hold moisture, and the carbon is a fairly good conductor.

PURDUE UNIVERSITY, LAFAYETTE, INDIANA.

Lightning conductors, properly erected will prevent damage by lightning in practically all cases. This has been thoroughly demonstrated by Government statistics.

The best material to use is copper, and a stranded cable with the wires interwoven, weighing about six ounces per foot, as Iron is only one sixth as good a conductor as copper, and therefore a conductor that has any Iron about it should be six times as large.

Gamblers Wreak Vengeance. Lake Station, Ind., March 27.—While John Koppleman and his aged mother were at supper, a dynamite bomb exploded under the window near which they were seated, hurling Koppleman and his mother clear across the room and slightly injuring Mrs. Koppleman. Koppleman is known as a local reformer, and he has waged a relentless warfare on gamblers and slot machines.

Kansas City, March 27.—General Richard C. Horne was acquitted of the charge of murdering H. J. Groves, managing editor of the Kansas City Post, by a jury in the criminal court here last night. The verdict stated that he has not fully recovered and committed him to an asylum.

MINORITY'S VIEW

Mr. Williams Lets It Be Known Just How Far Democrats Will Go.

THE PRESIDENT'S PROGRAM

In Part the Minority Will Sustain Executive Recommendations and Defines These Points.

Some Things So Immediately Important as the Pass Bounds of Partisanship.

Washington, March 27.—Representative John Sharp Williams of Mississippi, as leader of the minority in the house of representatives, has issued a statement defining the attitude of the Democratic party in the house toward legislation urged by President Roosevelt in his message to congress at the present session. The statement describes what Republican legislation the Democrats will support, what they will oppose and what concessions they demand on the part of the majority as the price of refraining from an organized filibuster throughout the remainder of the session.

Mr. Williams opens his statement by saying: "Some things in the president's recent message are so immediately important to the interests of the entire country as to pass the bounds of partisanship and to make it excusable if not necessary for me to say something concerning them with the view of assuring the president himself and reasonably inclined Republican members of the house and the country of the support and endorsement, or the opposition of the Democratic minority. In so far as the things urged by the president are good things, I would like the country to know that all he has to do is to deliver twenty or twenty-five Republican house votes in favor of them. These conjoined with the solid Democratic votes will put them through."

Mr. Williams notes the following measures as ones which will "command virtually the solid Democratic vote within constitutional limits." To compel publication of campaign contributions.

Those principles and measures urged by the president with which Mr. Williams, as minority leader, takes issue are enumerated as follows:

The penalizing of the boycott.

The right of the attorney general to nominate receivers when common carriers are thrown into the hands of a receiver.

The modification of the Sherman anti-trust law so as to permit within limitation the maintenance of trusts and the making of trade agreements between combinations of capital.

The appointment of a commission to prepare data for a revision of the tariff.

Mr. Williams frankly states that he does not know whether a majority of the minority favors the creation of a permanent waterways commission.

ELDER BROTHER CONVICTED

Encouraged Younger Brothers to Carry Off a Safe Containing $200.

Boonville, Ind., March 27.—The jury in the case of the state against Levi Lockhart, after twenty-one hours' retirement, returned a verdict finding the defendant guilty of having encouraged his younger brothers, Dello and Herman, to take a horse and buggy and after breaking into the saloon owned by J. M. Hudspeth, carry off a safe containing $200, which was hauled into the country, broken open and robbed of its contents. The horse and buggy were returned to the proper owner, after which the brothers disappeared. Suspicion fell on the Lockharts, and they were arrested a day or two later. The defendant has already served two terms in the Indiana reformatory, and this conviction means from ten to twenty years in prison. The younger brothers, Dello and Herman, have been released by the court.

The Rev. Kuhn is down and out. After the first ballot he was dropped like the proverbial "hot potato." C. G. Conn made a vigorous effort to secure the nomination, but he entered the race too late and consequently failed to get on the slate.

Aeroplanes are continually being improved, and a recent test in France was such a decided success that the time of navigating the air is near at hand. Keeping a carriage automobile and aeroplane will add a pleasing variety to the locomotion of those who can afford it.

Of Thomas Marshall, who was nominated by the Democrats for governor, it's said that he is a strong man in every way with a matchless gift of oratory. There is only one man among the Republican gubernatorial candidates who can cope with him in that respect and that is Watson. Since the nomination of Marshall on the Democratic ticket, Watson is the logical candidate on the Republican ticket. And with these two men heading the respective State tickets, the people of Indiana will witness a campaign this year such as has never been witnessed before.

INDIANA POLITICS

BY ROBERT G. TUCKER

Indianapolis, Ind., March 27.—Thomas Taggart was re-elected Democratic national committeeman from Indianapolis by the newly elected delegates to the national committee last night. Twenty-four of the thirty delegates cast their ballots for Mr. Taggart; two did not vote; two were for W. B. Westlake, and two voted against Mr. Taggart. The two delegates who voted against the victorious leader were John W. Boehne and Archibald Stevenson, the two First district delegates. Acting under instructions from their district J. Fred Fance and Frank Kistler of the Eleventh, voted for W. B. Westlake of Marion for national committeeman, and Frederick Henrich and Charles Murphy of the Tenth district voted for no one. The remaining twenty-four delegates were enthusiastic for Taggart, and he was declared elected. Although this election was held quietly and attracted but little attention in the excitement following the completion of the state ticket, it really was one of the most eventful steps taken by the state convention. It was the one piece of material evidence that Taggart, in the face of the most bitter fight made against him since he has been the leader of the Indian Democracy, had whipped his enemies. Their greatest ambition was to keep him off the national committee, regardless of what he won in the state contest. While it was evident that Mr. Taggart was in complete control of the convention as early as Wednesday afternoon, when the members of the several convention committees were chosen, the real test of strength was not made until last night, when the national convention delegates met to name a national committeeman.

Ralston's weakness. His showin from the start was a big disappointment to his followers.

When Mr. Ralston withdrew there were loud cries of protest from his followers among the delegates. This withdrawal set the partisans of the remaining candidates well-nigh frantic, and for a season the convention hall resembled a scene in pandemonium. The Marshall partisans, who had early been armed with flags, were very much in evidence by reason of their fluttering banners, and a pretty scene followed as hundreds of flags began to wave in all parts of the hall. The chairman gave the delegates full opportunity to vent their enthusiasm and the ballot was delayed for some time while the delegates yelled themselves hoarse. Of course, the next, fifth and last ballot proved decisive and the vote by counties was watched with the most eager interest, being frequently interrupted by wild demonstrations as the fortunes of one or the other candidates wavered in the balance. When Marion county gave 88 of her 115 votes to Marshall, the followers of the latter could scarcely restrain themselves. When Vigo gave 30 of her 36 votes for Marshall and it was seen the latter had passed the magic 686, it was all over but the final, which were soon heard.

Mr. Slack's graceful speech moving to make the nomination unanimous was warmly received. The acceptance speech of Mr. Marshall, whom the chairman introduced as the next governor of Indiana, created the best possible impression and the convention literally rose to him at the conclusion of one of the most effective little bursts of patriotic oratory ever heard in that hall.

With a splintering crash the cars came together. FRUIT WEATHER IS UNSURPASSED

An Abundant Supply of Fruit Predicted if Conditions do not Change

According to local fruit growers there is every promise of a bountiful fruit crop the coming season, and few of the conditions prevail that last year caused an almost absolute failure of every kind of fruit, from berries and cherries to plums and apples. Not only locally, but throughout the entire country the unfavorable conditions at this time last year, which within a few weeks of this time last year, resulted in disaster are lacking this year.

The cold weather of the last few weeks the growers state, has reasonably insured the crop of 1908. The fruit buds are still snugly encased in their warm winter coverings whereas last year a spell of summer weather in February and March brought the buds out to the bursting point, with the result that a later period of frost ruined all chances of fruition. Even now it will be no bad thing if the spring is a little slow about breaking, as the fruit buds gain by not being too greatly encouraged to come out while there is still danger of late frosts. A week or two of reasonably cool weather, with a few pleasant days and then a nice warm spring opening will be the ideal condition to insure cheap and plentiful fruit this season.

CHAPTER XXI.

IT seemed to him a very long time before he was summoned back to her.

She was white to the lips as they sat down again together, but she was a woman of strong will, and her voice was steady when she spoke to him.

"How in the world, Peter, did you come by this paper?" she began.

He told her briefly of his summer at the farm and of his investigation of the haunted room. He did not, however, mention his nightly seances with Eunice. Miss Wolcott was nothing if not conventional.

"You believe this story?" Her questions were abrupt and sharp.

"I do. Do you?"

"I am open to conviction. And you would tell me that this paper remained undiscovered all these years and that my niece has been kept by this farmer's family, knowing nothing of her origins? You say you met her at this farm?"

"Yes."

"The proof of her identity offered here?" she demanded.

He drew from his pocket a small box and handed it to her. She quickly opened it and took out the chain and locket.

Her face grew whiter as she handled them, and her voice was not steady when she spoke again.

"Oh! I—I remember this!—I remember clasping it about her little neck!"

She leaned her head on her hand for an instant. But she quickly rallied.

"And the other proof?" she questioned.

"It is there."

"The two little moles under her ear?"

"I saw them."

"Tell me of the girl."

Her tone was tense with anxiety. Was it the prospect of losing her wealth or her fear of hearing an unwelcome account of her niece that drew those deep lines about her strong mouth?

"She has been brought up in the farmer's family—not quite as a member of the family!"

"I should hope not!"

"But rather as their servant."

She sank back in her chair, looking as though he had struck her in the face.

"What do you mean?"

"She has done every sort of menial work to pay them for giving her a home. She has been a domestic drudge for them."

He felt that he was cruel, but he was speaking advisedly, and at least his purpose in putting the case so brutally was merciful—to both Eunice and her aunt.

"A servant! To a farmer's family! My niece!"

As she spoke Kinross had a sudden mental picture of Eunice transplanted into this house—her own house really. He saw the girl in all her exquisite delicacy of face and form, her grace, her thrilling voice, her natural dignity, in contrast to Miss Wolcott's funny, dumpy little figure, abrupt manner and almost coarse features.

"The girl would appear distinguished beside her," he thought.

"Then she is a crude, uneducated country girl, quite unfit for decent society?" she demanded.

"It depends upon what you mean by 'decent'!"

"Is she quite hopeless, or could something possibly be done for her?"

"Her blood ought to tell for something," he said, not without a touch of malice.

"Unless she has been ruined by her environment. And it would be too late now to make up for her lack of education. Of course they never sent her to school."

"Not after she was twelve years old."

"Gracious."

"She has never been away from the farm except," he stoically added, "to go with her foster parents to town to market to sell vegetables, butter and eggs, smerecase, apple butter, pony-haus, snits and sauerkraut."

She gazed at him speechless.

"Let her have it!" he thought. "It will do her good. If she does the right thing, she will find out for herself what the child really is."

"What would the poor girl do with wealth?" she asked in a hollow voice.

"You say she is utterly unfit to use it?"

"I have seen many rich people not better fitted."

His eyes were constantly drawn to the "confession," which she firmly held in her hand. He had an apprehension that at any moment he might see her tear it into shreds and defy him to do his "worst. Yet an inborn instinct of courtesy, stronger than his vaunted cynicism, made it impossible for him to ask her for the paper until he had given her every chance to return it voluntarily.

"A fine lawyer I'd make!" he sneered at himself.

"Then," she continued, "granting, for the sake of argument, that I believed this paper," tapping it with her finger, "I would at least have to try to get her somewhat before I turned over to her the control of her money. It would be an actual wrong to her to

"Do you think it will turn her head?"
She is incredibly unsophisticated and ignorant of life—so much so that she will probably not realize at all what it means in a worldly way to come into great wealth. So if you manage her wisely you may save her from having her head turned."

Miss Wolcott sighed heavily. "It seems to me I have a herculean task on my hands."

"I suppose," said Kinross gravely. "I have seemed heartless in my way of bringing you this unwelcome news. But, believe me, I do most sincerely feel the disaster that it is to you—not," he quickly added, "in the discovery of your niece, but in the loss to you of wealth which you have enjoyed so long that I don't see how you are going to get on without it."

"I managed to worry through thirty years of my life without it, so I suppose I can do it again," she curtly dismissed that phase of the matter.

A Victoria containing two ladies had driven in at the gateway and was coming up the drive. Kinross rose and took up his hat from a table close by.

"We will arrange details tomorrow morning," she asked as he held out his hand. "I shall have the girl come to me as soon as possible," she announced stonily.

"I wish I were a mediaeval knight! I want to bend the knee to you and kiss your hand!"

"Your enthusiasm at finding me honest is positively insulting, Peter Kinross!"

Miss Wolcott, I believe in my heart that you will not be ashamed of the girl. I believe you will love her."

"Indeed! But what you believe could have no weight with me, you know, your standards are so impossibly absurd!"

With this exchange of civilities they cordially shook hands and Kinross took his leave.

PUT A STOP TO IT

Elatant Anarchistic Sheet Shut Out of the Mails.

Washington, March 27.—Following the hearing held Wednesday, the second-class mailing privilege of "La Question Sociale," a Socialist publication issued at Paterson, N. J., has been annulled by the postoffice department. Ludivo Cammina, editor of the paper, appeared before Third Assistant Postmaster General Lawshe and admitted his responsibility for the articles which caused Postmaster General Meyer to declare the publication unlawful.

Translations made by the postoffice department show that nearly every issue of the paper contained obscene and indecent matter and was almost entirely devoted to exciting and defending violence, riot, arson, murder and assassination. The deeds of violence committed by anarchists were commemorated in its columns, and in extolling the work of Czolgosz, the assassin of President McKinley, the paper refers to him as "the hero of Buffalo."

The postoffice officials held that some of the matter printed in the Patriotic paper is too vile for reproduction in English. Ministers, senators, congressmen and others are attacked. The second-class mailing privilege of the publication was revoked on the ground that it is not a newspaper or other periodical within the meaning of the law, and that it is not published for the dissemination of information of a public character or devoted to literature, the arts, sciences or some special industry as required by law.

Other publications of like character will be proceeded against by the post-office department.

Eighth District Deadlock.

Anderson, Ind., March 27.—On the 33rd ballot in the Eighth district convention the deadlock was apparently as firmly set as at the start. The deadlock ballot gives Cromer, 43; Vestal, 32; Hawkins, 15; Shockney, 25. Attempts to compromise, to adjourn or to secure a secret ballot have failed and the convention is apparently in a fixed deadlock, the counties refusing to change their ballots since the forty-eighth ballot, cast yesterday afternoon.

You are doing me the honor to believe me capable of withholding my niece's fortune; of being unwilling to make restitution to her."

"I am presupposing nothing, Miss Wolcott," he hastily affirmed—not quite candidly.

"That is my conviction."

"It is very interesting," she said, shrugging her shoulders.

He looked at her dubiously.

"I think I see your point," she added.

"Indeed!"

THE HOUSE OF GOD

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Lesson XIII.—First Quarter, For March 29, 1908.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Prov. xxiii, 29-35. Memory Verse, 31—Golden Text, Prov. xxiii, 32—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

[Copyright, 1908, by American Press Association.]

All Scripture is given by inspiration of God and is profitable. * * * that the man of God may be thoroughly furnished unto all good works. Whatsover things were written aforetime were written for our learning (II Tim. iii, 16, 17; Rom. xv, 4). These sayings certainly include the book of Proverbs as well as every other part of the Scriptures. This has been called a book on godliness or holy living, contrasting God's wisdom and man's folly; it is God's wisdom for man's ignorance. The words wise and wisdom are used over 100 times, and the words fool, folly, foolish, foolishness, over ninety times. In chapter viii and elsewhere wisdom evidently refers to the Son of God, for He is the wisdom of God (I Cor. i, 24). By contrast we think of the fools of whom He Himself speaks, who hear His words but do them not, who are rich on earth, but not rich toward God; who have no use for prophecy (Matt. vii, 26; Luke xii, 20, 21; xxiv, 25). In verse 4 of this lesson chapter we read, "Labor not to be rich; cease from thine own wisdom," for it is man's wisdom to get rich quickly and at any cost, for he is slow to believe that riches make themselves wings and fly away (verse 5).

Our lesson, with its immediate context, sets forth the folly of bad women and strong drink, two of the great evils of this world by which the great destroyer destroys multitudes. Concerning the former it is written, "Her house is the way to hell" (chapter vii, 27), and, concerning both, they cannot inherit the kingdom of God (I Cor. vi, 9-11), but that even such have been saved and may be saved, for Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners, to seek and save the lost. Woe and sorrow is the present portion of all such, and if they die in their sins then it will be torment that will covet a drop of water to cool the tongue, and finally the everlasting fire prepared for the devil and his angels (Luke xvi, 24; Matt. xxv, 41).

But God is not willing that any should perish, and in the person of His Son He became a man of sorrows and acquainted with grief, was wounded and bruised for us, bearing our sins in His own body on the cross, suffering the just and the unjust, that He might bring us to God (Isa. lli, 3-5; I Pet. ii, 24; ill, 18), and be it who says, "Wisdom is the principal thing; therefore get wisdom, for wisdom is better than rubies, and all the things that may be desired are not to be compared to it, for whoso findeth Me findeth life and shall obtain favor of the Lord" (chapter iv, 7; viii, 11, 35).

The following "Philippine Notes" from the Presbyterian Christian Endeavor Manual are interesting and instructive:

The saloon is the greatest enemy of progress in the Philippines, as it is the greatest foe to missions everywhere. Break it down at home, and you will do the most for missions abroad.

Christian Endeavor came to the Philippines in that splendid society on Dewey's flagship, the Olympia. It speedily spread among the Filipinos, and it is destined to be an important agent in planting Protestant Christianity in those islands.

There are about 1,775 islands in the Philippine archipelago, with an area of about 122,000 square miles—a glorious new empire to win for Christ.

The population of the islands is about 8,000,000, nearly all of them Catholics, though, fortunately, 3,000,000 are independent Catholics. There are 270,000 Mohammedans, 75,000 Buddhists and Confucians, 250,000 Animists—a complicated task for the missionaries.

All the largest denominations and several of the smaller ones hastened to the Philippines at the close of the war with Spain and inaugurated a second war with ignorance, superstition and barbarism.

About 15,000 converts have been made by our missionaries in the Philippines. More than 100 little churches have been built, each a center of light in much darkness. The missionaries have distributed more than 20,000,000 pages of religious literature through the islands, and each page is a precious seed that may bring forth glorious fruit.

The native converts have begun to take up the work of evangelizing their brethren. Seminaries have been established to train the native preachers and schools to train the native deaconesses and other workers.

Nearly 80% of the Filipinos speak English fairly well, and this is a great help toward the spread of the gospel. There are employed in Filipino schools 800 American teachers and 6,000 Filipino teachers. Nearly 500,000 children attend these schools—one of the most encouraging signs for the future.

RUSHVILLE CHURCHES SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR

Zeph. ill, 17-20; Acts I, 8; xiii, 1-3; Rom. ix, 5; x, 14, 15; Rev. I, 4-9; xxi, 17.

Seattle Pickups.

Rev. Francis E. Clark, D. D., in his address to the Endeavorers in convention assembled at Seattle, among other things said: "The key word of Christian Endeavor is 'training'—training in expression, training in service, training in living, training of the heart, training of the mind, training of the tongue, training of the boy and girl, training of the young man and woman, training to make citizens, training to make effective Christians, training in the church, training for the church, training by the church. The three great departments of Christian Endeavor are the weekly meeting, the committees, the unions, each of them indispensable to the movement and each of them, wherever established, so many training schools for the church, the nation, the world of the future.

"The prayer meetings are the training schools in expression. The committees are training schools in service.

"The unions are training schools in fellowship and united action."

In conclusion he said: "Take courage and press on, Endeavorers. See clearly, think straight and act."

Gideon Equipment.

Are you a Gideon Endeavorer? If you are, and it is a good kind to be, you possess three things—a torch, a pitcher and a trumpet.

The torch—You lead a life that is a light, and you are ready to let your light shine.

The trumpet—You have convictions, and you are ready to express them.

The pitcher—You have common sense. You know that there is a time to speak and a time to keep silence, a time to work and a time to rest. You know when to smash the pitcher, let the torch glare out, blow the trumpet and shout with might and main, "The sword of the Lord and Gideon!"

To Work Out the Golden Rule.

You recognize only one Master, and your work is one of co-operation. The aim of the Christian Endeavor is not for its members to live as selfish individuals, but to ease the burdens of the less fortunate, to work for one another and work out the Golden Rule.—Hon. James R. Garfield at Seattle Convention.

The Best Yet to Come.

"And whatsoever ye do in word or deed do all in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to God." Christian Endeavor day should be a real thanksgiving day. To the older members of the society who have been identified with Christian Endeavor from its birth this birthday anniversary seems to come often, but none too often, for upon that day we look upon the mighty forces that have come into the church through its agency and thank God and take courage. The past has seen glorious achievements, but the best is yet to come. The future is gleaming with yet greater victories to be won. Whole nations are now waiting who will yet sing songs of praise and thanksgiving for the powerful force that Christian Endeavor meets.
